

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved my family time at home by virtually eliminating unsolicited phone calls.

Indiana's law has been extremely effective - I used to receive 3-4 calls per night, and now that I am on the no call list, I rarely receive an unsolicited call.

If a national telephone privacy standard is adopted, please consider allowing existing state law to stand. Indiana's law has proven effective!
